Overview

Under the Licensing Act 2003, the Council as a licensing authority has the power to publish a cumulative impact assessment (CIA) every three years. The CIA will assist the Council to limit the number or types of licence applications granted in areas where there is evidence to show that the number or density of licensed premises is having a negative impact on a particular area. The Council is consulting on the next three year CIA and welcomes views from the public, the hospitality sector and other interested parties.

The current situation

The Council is under a legal duty to review its policy guidelines.

The policy will help applicants for licences and the public to understand the profile of the County Borough and the decision making process.

The Council has the power to publish a cumulative impact assessment (CIA) on a three year basis to help it to limit the number or types of licence applications granted in areas where there is evidence to show that the number or density of licensed premises is having a negative impact.

South Wales Police has asked the Council to retain the Cumulative Impact Policy for certain streets in Bridgend. Cumulative impact means the problems which can arise where there is a concentration of licensed premises in a particular area, town centres for example. There may be a serious impact on crime and disorder, public nuisance, the transport network or street cleansing for example. The current policy covers Derwen Road, Market Street, Wyndham Street and Nolton Street (from its junction with Ewenny Road to its junction with Merthyr Mawr Road, but not the area between Merthyr Mawr Road and the junction with Court Road Bridgend). The effect of the policy means that no new licences for premises or club premises or variations will be granted unless the applicant can demonstrate that there will be no negative impact arising from the premises on the licensing objectives. The licensing objectives are:

- The prevention of crime and disorder;

- Public nuisance;
- Public safety;
- The protection of children from harm.

The Home Office guidance outlines that in some areas where the number, type or density of licensed premises is high or exceptional serious problems of nuisance or disorder may arise outside these premises. Moreover large concentrations of premises can affect public transport, littering, and public nuisance.

The South Wales Police has requested that the Council maintain this special policy in respect of Bridgend Town Centre and have submitted evidence in support of this proposal. The South Wales Police has not asked the Council to change the streets covered by the current policy.

If adopted, the new CIA has the potential to impact on the grant of new licences for pubs, restaurants, entertainment venues, cultural venues, nightclubs, late night refreshment takeaways, off- licences and club premises.

It will not apply to Temporary Event Notices.

The pro forma below seeks your views on whether the Council should retain this policy to inform the grant of future licences in Bridgend Town Centre. Please note that the council must receive evidence of the problems occurring. Evidence could include statistics, reports, residents' questionnaires evidence from local and parish councillors, health related statistics and local consultation.

Equality Impact Assessment (EIA)

An initial screening has been completed. There is no change to the policy, therefore the initial screening remains valid.
